DIEP Method

DIEP stands for Describe, Interpret, Evaluate and Plan, which makes up a four-step process in reflecting on one's past experiences and events in life.

Describe

Describe

What happened? What did you learn?

Interpret

Interpret

What does the experience mean? Why?

Evaluate

Evaluate

How valuable was the learning experience?

Plan

Plan

How will you apply your learning?

Insight

Transfer

D - DESCRIBE

D - Describe objectively what occurred. Give the details of what occurred.

Answer the question: 'What did I do, read, see, hear, etc?'

I - INTERPRET

I – Interpret the events. Explain your learning: new insights, connections with other learning, your feelings, hypotheses, conclusions.

Answer the questions: What was the purpose of this activity? What is the connection with what I have learned?’

E - EVALUATE

E – Evaluate what you learned. Make judgments connected to observations you have made.

Answer the questions: How was this useful? What is my opinion about this experience? What is the value of this experience? Why do I think this?

P - PLAN

P – Plan how this learning will be applied. Comment on its relevance to your course, program, future career and/or life.

Answer the question: How might this learning apply in my future?

THE LANGUAGE

How the experience made you feel:

“I found...”, “I felt...”

Evaluate the experience:

“Which gave me...”, “It reminded me...”

Plans for the future:

“I need to...”, “I am very interested in developing...”, “I hope to...”

REFLECTIVE WRITING:DIEP

RW aims:

- to get you to think and understand about your personal development and learning experience;
- to analyse your own performance in learning;
- to verbalise how you feel about your learning;
- to evaluate your gains in participating and completing tasks;
- to make connection with other experiences

D - describe

I - interpret

E - evaluate

P - plan
